

WOLFRAMITE CONCENTRATES.

The Cerro Azul Mining Company's Strike Growing in Extent and Richness.

A dish in the window of the Sonora News Company, labeled: "Rare and very valuable Wolframite concentrates from the mines of the Cerro Azul Mining Company," is attracting much interest among those interested in mines and mining. The properties from which the contents of the bottle were taken are situated in the Magdalena district, Sonora, Mexico, about thirty-five miles south of Nogales. Many years ago considerable gold was taken from the properties by the crude method of arrastras and much of the higher grade ore was shipped to the United States for treatment. The old mines and considerable new property adjoining, said to be as valuable, if not more so, are now the property of the Cerro Azul Mining Company, O. O. Saxhang of this city, president and general manager. The company are, and have been for many months, developing the properties with the result that at this time they have enough good ore on the dump and in sight to keep a small mill busy for a number of years.

The discovery of Wolframite in paying quantities, the first of its kind recorded in the Republic of Mexico, which valuable ore contains good gold values, greatly enhances the value of the company's
